Subject: In support of Ted Butler's recent letter

Dear Mr. Gensler,

I appreciate that you have been more responsive than many on the CFTC (cc'd here) in terms of hearing the concerns of those who object to the blatant suppression of silver by JP Morganbut 'responsive' is not the same as 'responsible' and I urge you to take more responsibility for the continued blind eye the CFTC turns to a fact that will eventually be looked upon by all: the price of Silver (and Gold) is not determined by a free market and that fact has been demonstrated to your committee clearly and often for a very long time.

It is time for the CFTC to exercise it's authority and perform it's function in the market. I strongly urge you to consider Mr. Butler's simple proposal to prohibit any single trader from controlling futures contracts greater than 1% of world production of that commodity.

Thank you for your on going willingness to at least have a conversation on this matter, I hope to see your actions soon.

Sincerely,

Elizabeth Read Watertown, MA
